The Existence of Sharia Insurance Business Arrangement by Positive Law

Muhaimin, Mataram University

Abstract

The existence of sharia insurance as part of dual insurance system, in insurance business has important meaning as supporting business activity in Indonesia, but in its implementation not yet supporting by clarity the rule of law managing it; it can have implication to existence of sharia insurance according to positive law. The purpose of this study is to analyze the existence of sharia insurance business according to positive law, using normative legal research using conceptual and statute approach that comes from primary, secondary and tertiary law material through literature study, then analyzed descriptively and prescriptively to get a deductive conclusion. The results show the existence of sharia insurance business in the insurance legal system before the release of the Act on Insurance Business in 2014 is not the same as conventional insurance, but with the Law no. 40 of 2014 on Insurance, the juridical position of sharia insurance equal or equal to conventional insurance because the Indonesian legal system has embraced dual insurance system

Existence, Sharia Insurance, Positive Law.

Introduction

The current insurance legal system uses dual insurance system, namely conventional insurance and sharia insurance. This fact shows that the insurance system in Indonesia is not only conventional insurance but also sharia insurance as a result of the need for the importance of participation of all components of society in national economic development, especially in the field of insurance. The existence of sharia insurance business is still not regulated comprehensively and systematically in positive law and there are still legal problems that occur this can have legal implication to existence of business of Sharia insurance in running its business. Viewed the insufficient of legal regulation managing Shariah insurance, it is deemed necessary to have
