Journal of Neuroscience in Rural Practice

Evaluator 1 report:

This study evaluates the correlation between tumor grading and PR expression in intracranial meningiomas.

Some technical revisions are required in the abstract and text.

I suggest removing the title abbreviation (PR) and city-country names.

Abstract / Background: The first 3 sentences can be deleted.

Abstract / M & M: Study location position information and the second sentence should be deleted.

Abstract / Results: The sentence about the patient's age should be concise. The information in the "Conclusion" section should be moved to the "Results" section and an appropriate conclusion should be written.

The introduction is unnecessarily long. The first three paragraphs should be abbreviated and converted to a single and short paragraph.

In the Results section, the first 3 paragraphs repeat the information in the tables. In this section, it will be sufficient to provide correlation information between PR expression and patient age, grading, and histological types. For other information, reference should be made to the table.

The first sentence of the Discussion may be omitted.

The discussion section can also be written in a more concise manner. In paragraph 3, tumor types are unnecessarily repeated.

The last paragraph of the discussion is repetitive and must be deleted or otherwise written.

Table 2 is unnecessary and must be removed.

The PR expression column can be added to table 1 so that it is possible to merge with table 4.

Evaluator 2 report:

Abstract: The abstract is not very informative and does not adequately represent this study. The correlation of PR expression results with grades of meningioma and its subtypes (along with significant statistical values) needs to be elaborated and should be presented under results instead of conclusion. In view of limited number of words assigned for the abstract, some sentences can be avoided. For example, the last two sentences under material and methods are only important and information on age and sex distribution under results can be avoided.

Text: The manuscript should be re-written breaking the complex sentences into two or more simple sentences. The grammatical errors are frequent and needs to be avoided. In discussion part the reference numbers are adequate while referring to a number of studies; it is not necessary to refer all of them by authors' names.

Tables: Table 2 can be avoided.
